Remaining projectiles
Press \( \odot \) to open the Briefing Screen. From here, you can return to your last checkpoint, return to the title screen, check the options menu, or restart the mission.
Dispatch your enemies using two distinct fighting styles. Use one or the other depending on your enemies and environment.

Melee Combat

Attack with your fists or various melee weapons. You can only carry one melee weapon at a time.

Enbaku

When the Enbaku Gauge is filled, press \( \text{Y} + \text{B} \) to unleash your latent powers, making you harder to defeat and improving your speed, strength, and various other abilities.

Firearms

Take out enemies from a distance using firearms. You can carry up to two different firearms at once.

Reloading

Press \( \text{A} \) before your magazine is empty to reload your weapon.

♦ Be careful, as reloading when empty leaves you more vulnerable to attack!
Picking Up Ammo

Hold ☩ when in front of an ammo box or pass over dropped ammo to pick it up. If you pass over a gun that you already have, your ammo for that gun will automatically be restocked.

Grenades

Throw a grenade and it'll explode, damaging anything in its immediate surroundings. Hold ☩ and move ⬇️ to adjust the trajectory, and then release ☩ to throw.

Taking Damage

When you take damage, the screen will become darker. You will recover after a certain amount of time, but if you continue to take damage, it's game over!

◆ Some particularly strong attacks will take you out in one hit, so be careful.
Once you have cleared a mission, you will be able to select "Story" or "Score Attack" in "Mission" on the Solo-play menu.

Selecting Missions

Story

Follow the main story.

Score Attack

You can attempt the Score Attack challenge for missions you’ve already completed. The number of points you earn will depend on the ways in which you defeat your enemies.

Uploading Your Scores

You can upload your score to the server after clearing a Score Attack mission. If you beat your personal best, the score on the server will be updated with your new record.
Connect to the Internet to view other players' scores.

"Personal Best" can be selected without an Internet connection.
When you begin your training, only a limited number of options will be available.

Conditions of Victory

The attacking team will claim victory if they manage to blow up all command posts in the fortress within the time limit. Victory will go to the defending team if they can defend the fortress for the entire duration of the match. If either team's fighting strength is fully depleted, the match will end and the victor will be decided.

♦ If there are no players on the defending team, the attacking team will automatically win.

Siege Match Screen
Dealing damage to modules within the fortress, destroying Special Arms, and defeating enemies will increase this figure. The gauge will fill as you defeat enemies or take damage. Once the gauge is full, you can perform an X-Gear attack. The gauge of the defending side will be full from the beginning.

The blue bar represents your clan's fighting strength, while the red bar represents the enemy's. As clan members are eliminated, their clan's fighting strength will be depleted.

The locations of command posts will be visible for the defending team from the start of the match. will appear for the attacking team once they are within a certain distance of a command post.

Dealing damage to modules within the fortress, destroying Special Arms, and defeating enemies will increase this figure. The gauge will fill as you defeat enemies or take damage. Once the gauge is full, you can perform an X-Gear attack. The gauge of the defending side will be full from the beginning.
X-Gear

Fire exceedingly strong weapons, such as a Gatling gun or multiple-grenade launcher. You can continue firing the weapon until the X-Gear Gauge is depleted or you have been defeated.
Attacking Team

The attacking team will start some distance from any command posts in the fortress. The objective is to destroy all command posts with weapons, by planting a bomb, or by utilizing Special Arms.

Destroying Modules

There are various modules in the fortress, such as Jammer Features. Deal damage using heavy firearms and other munitions to destroy them and prevent them from functioning.

After the match, you'll receive Dollen corresponding to the amount of damage dealt to modules.

Planting Bombs

Once you have discovered a command post, you'll be able to plant a bomb there. Hold ② to plant a bomb, which will detonate after 45 seconds.

Special Arms

Call in military support, such as helicopters or bombers, to deal significant damage.
Defending Team

The defending team will start at a point near a command post. Use various modules and munitions to defend your command posts from assault.

Disarming Bombs

If the enemy has set a bomb, approach it and hold A to disarm it. This will take some time.

Destroying Special Arms

Take control of Counter-Air Weapons 18 and other weapons with A and use D to fire. Take out the attacking team’s Special Arms before they can wreak havoc!

About Zones

A fortress can expand over a maximum of three zones. In such cases, each zone will have a command post. The defending team will not lose the match until all command posts have been destroyed.

The attackers need to conquer each zone one after the other. As soon as a zone has fallen, the battleground moves on to the next one.
If you are affiliated with a clan, you will be able to use Special Arms. Any member of the clan can assemble Special Arms, but only the general can assign them.

Hangar

Spend your Personal Dollen to assemble Special Arms.

Clan Dollen can only be accessed by captains and generals.

Special Arms Slot

Assign the Special Arms to use in battle.

- You can use multiple helicopters, fighter planes, etc. in a match. However, if they are destroyed, the number that the clan possesses will decrease.

Using Special Arms

During a Siege match, only the attacking team can use Special Arms.

1. Pick Up a Radio

A radio 📻 is located near the start location. Special Arms can only be requested by the player who picks up the radio.
2. Make the Request

Press 🎧 to activate the radio, and then choose the type of Special Arms you wish to deploy. When performing a strike, you can also choose your target.

♦ You will need to wait a certain amount of time before you can use this command again.

About Radios

If the player carrying the radio falls in battle, the radio will be returned to its original location.

♦ Mercenaries cannot see or use radios.
